Allergy sufferers...no worries...and sunscreen...not needed! Come and stroll with us through this glorious gallery garden of photographic delight.

fotofoto Gallery, the oldest fine art photography collective on Long Island, is in full bloom for the month of May. Two complementary exhibitions with The Focus on Flowers celebrate the glory of Spring's rebirth and renewal. Gardens have universal appeal as they offer sustenance for the table, the vase and the soul. Be dazzled and delighted by the photography. Chat with the artists and discover insights into how they see and create. You may even return home with renewed excitement to grab your spade and your camera!

For solo exhibiting artist Holly Gordon, gardens throughout the world present her with infinite palettes of color. The digital darkroom has expanded the fluidity of her work as well as her innovative universe. FLORAbundance combines her creativity as both painter and photographer. Although she stopped painting with a brush twenty years ago, the two mediums are reunited through lens and technology.

Complementing FLORAbundance is Floral Bouquet, a group show by individual gallery artists that provide a veritable garden of photographic delight. Among the exhibiting artists are Patricia Beary, Sandra Carrion, Lawrence Chatterton, Patricia Colombraro, Susan Dooley, Rosalie Frost, Andrea M. Gordon, Kristin Holcomb, Seth Kalmowitz and Lois Youmans. Compare and contrast the creative diversity of all the fotofoto gallery artists, the unique inspiration and perceptions presented in this Floral Bouquet of fine art photography. Both exhibitions...fresh, vibrant and poignant...will arouse your senses and sensibilities...and perhaps change the way you look at your garden!

Background: Holly Gordon is a working photographer coming from a fine arts background, and holds a Master's Degree from New York University. She is a member of fotofoto Gallery in Huntington as well as Huntington Arts Council, Patchogue Arts Council and Long Island Photo Gallery in Islip, NY. Exhibited widely, including the American Museum of Natural History in NYC, The Heckscher Museum of Art, Studio 5404, Ripe Art, Patchogue Artspace and Denise Bibro Fine Art in Chelsea, Manhattan, her work has also appeared in published form in The New York Times, Shutterbug Magazine, National Wildlife Magazine, New York Newsday, Long Island Pulse, The Village Connection and dozens of other media channels. Kodak showcased her work on their professional site.

Background: fotofoto gallery was founded in October 2003 by a group of Long Island-based photographers desiring to promote experimental and traditional photographic processes and visions. In 2012 fotofoto was awarded status as a 501(c) 3 non-profit organization whose purpose is to conduct a cooperative photographic gallery dedicated to the encouragement of the artistic development of photographers without limit to subject matter or technique to serve both its members and the public by organizing exhibitions, lectures, critiques, demonstrations, seminars and instruction; and by the sharing of experiences both at our location and at locations outside our physical space. Interested photographers are always invited and encouraged to submit their portfolios and various levels of membership are available.

Holly Gordon, press coordinator for this exhibit, can be contacted for additional information and hi-res images. Additional images are also available.

Gallery Hours: Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday 11 – 6pm, Friday 11 – 8pm, Sunday 12-5pm and by appointment
